▶ Network selection

Manual Network Search
Your Motorola handset should automatically pick up a signal when in your destination country. If there is no signal present, please try the following:

- Press the menu key and select Settings, Network, and Available Networks. Press Search. The phone will automatically search for available networks.

Once a list of Network Providers is displayed highlight your chosen network and press the menu key. Select Register now onto your chosen network.

Network Selection
1. Press the menu key and select Settings, Network and Network Setup

2. Highlight Band and select Change.

3. Select Automatic. If you are in the US and some parts of South America you may also select 850/1900.

4. For the rest of the world including you may also select 900/1800.

Important note: The Motorola Razr handset works on GSM 850/900/1800/1900. The phone is setup to automatically switch between bands. If you are not able to pick up a signal, please ensure the phone is set to the appropriate frequency for the country (ies) in which you are traveling and then try performing a Manual Network Search.
